

Oregonians do not need to pay higher insurance premiums in order to subsidize methods of "safe-sex". This should be the personal responsibility of the people who are having sex with partners that they are not married to.