

I find intuitiveness to be more qualified than a licensed counselor/psychologist. They can relate as a friend and it just helps to have someone that is positive and supportive. Every counselor/psychologist I have ever encounterd had been a waste of money. Letting the licensed professional monopolize the market is shameful. People should have a choice. We don't need someone making it for us.