

Do NOT do this. Instead, center the climate crisis in obligating all funding bills to specify in detail how each and every one of their components addresses the state's and local municipalities' officially stated climate crisis goals and strategies. Require that they specify the ways in which they avoid making funding available for projects as-yet-unspefied, as-yet-planned substantially, or any other status, which might or will run counter to the state's and local municipalities' officially stated climate crisis goals and strategies.
