

We are always being told what we can and can't do and taking away things that we have been able to do for the few. Leave things as they are and look at the things that can help without causing suffering to the ones that use the river.