

I am a member of Oregon AAUW. Employees over 50 bring years of experience to the workplace and deserve full and equal access to employment opportunities. Today, workplace age discrimination has become so common that it is an unfortunate routine practice.

This form of discrimination greatly affects women who have worked within the home giving care to children or elders. Their employment history reflects these periods and puts them at a disadvantage and adds to their retirement security risk.

Catharine Hojem
Oregon City, Oregon