

It's time to open all restaurants, bars and small businesses, following proper safety protocols. These businesses have been proven not to spread covid-19 when procedures are followed. If people are allowed to go to large grocery and department stores they need to be allowed to support these small businesses as well