

High school was when I had my first teacher of color. She was newly out of school and did not last more than a term before taunted out of the classroom. The next was in college and she completely opened my eyes to the lens of whiteness and patriarchy. I support this bill because people of color are disproportionately affected by the deficits in our institutions.