

I had my first teach of color in the kindergarten. They were Hispanic, and then I had my first african american teacher in the third grade. Seeing that there were teachers of different colors around, was comforting. It felt accepting and diverse.