

Another tax will not help our forests recover from last summers devastation. Let's get them replanted now so there's timber for future generations. Every day wasted only puts the next crop of timber out further. Now is the time: harvest what's not burned beyond salvage and replant as soon as possible.