

Hello, I am a teacher at Head Start down here in Roseburg Or. I have been working with the Talk About Trees program for over 17 years. I met Paula Yablonsky back in 2007 when I was working at the after school program in Winston Or. The program she has/does represent is a great one to help teach about the culture and livelihood around here where we live. The program showed other job opportunities to my students other than logging the trees, but to help regrow a forest and work with the wildlife. Now that I am a preschool teacher it is great for them because we do a whole study on trees and she bring it to life! The children love the activities and the ways that she shows them how trees grow and reproduce and how they supply things for all of us. It would be a huge disappointment all the schools around here.

Thank-you for your time,

Amie Thompson
