Measure: HB4115

As a person of faith, I believe God entrusted our world to our stewardship. I see the impacts of climate change here in the heat-caused deaths of 3 cedar trees in my favorite park and the burn marks on the cedars that survive for now. And I personally experienced the intransigence of the fossil fuel industry when, in the fall of 2020, the management of Exxon relentlessly pushed me as a shareholder to vote down a dissident slate of pro-environmental directors.

I divested my Exxon stock. And now I'm looking for my government to take similar actions. Acting together we can start changing the warming trajectory that threatens our western red cedars and so much else we love in Oregon.

Please support HB4115. Knowing what the state invests in and what the risks are in those investments, can lead to thoughtful, important and impactful changes.
