Measure: HB4131

Of all the problems facing Oregon, I don't think "we're not using enough chemical weapons against our citizens" is one of them. I am heartened to see all the testimony against this bill from concerned, law-abiding citizens, and if the best its supporters can muster against the demands of international law and human respiration is "but we really want to," I'd hope the legislature would take that as a signal to preserve the protections afforded by HB2928 against those who would violate Oregonians' human rights.
