ISSUES DISCUSSED:

- Addition of tribal cultural values to record retention considerations
- Whether research is included in other listed values

EFFECT OF AMENDMENT:

-1 Restores "research" to purposes and values in statutes for retention of public records.

BACKGROUND:

A public record is statutorily defined as any information that:

- is prepared, owned, used, or retained by a state agency or political subdivision;
- relates to an activity, transaction, or function of a state agency or political subdivision; and,
- is necessary to satisfy the "legal, administrative or historical policies, requirements or needs" of the state agency or political subdivision.

Each state agency or political subdivision is required to maintain a public record or accurate copy of the public record, regardless of the technology or medium used to create or communicate the record, in accordance with a retention schedule authorized by statute (ORS 192.018, ORS 192.105 and 192.108) if the public record has certain values or purposes.

House Bill 2112 adds tribal cultural purposes to considerations in appraising records for retention, makes the records retention purposes and values consistent, and updates references to obsolete technology.
