- Expanding or narrowing current definition
- Access to services for the deaf community and spectrum of accessibility needs

EFFECT OF AMENDMENT:

No amendment.

BACKGROUND:

Oregon Law (ORS 759.693) defines a “communication facilitator” as someone who provides professional assistive services that are necessary for effective communication for persons who are deaf, deaf-blind, or hard of hearing and have a physical disability that limits their expressive communication.

Senate Bill 685 would add persons who are deaf and have a physical disability that limits their expressive communication to the list of persons communication facilitators serve.
