BACKGROUND:

Community providers like community health centers, safety net clinics, and federally qualified health centers (FQHCs) are important health care access points for low-income and uninsured individuals, including enrollees of the state's Medicaid program - the Oregon Health Plan (OHP). Beginning in 2012, the state shifted how OHP coverage is provided to enrollees, establishing regional coordinated care organizations (CCOs) to coordinate the physical, behavioral, and oral health coverage for OHP enrollees. There are currently 15 CCOs that coordinate care for over 90 percent of the nearly 1.4 million OHP enrollees.

House Bill 3040 would require coordinated care organizations (CCO) to share patient claims and encounter data with community providers the CCO contracts with to manage and provide care to enrollees.
