BACKGROUND:

School-based health centers (SBHCs) are medical clinics that provide physical, behavioral, and preventive health services on school grounds or inside a school. SBHCs are staffed by licensed health care professionals and are available to students, with some centers providing medical services to siblings, families, and community members.

The Oregon Health Authority (OHA) has established certification standards for SBHCs. The certification standards cover issues such as facility requirements, hours of operation, minimum staffing requirements, comprehensive care, data collection and reporting, and billing. According to the Oregon Health Authority, there were 81 certified SBHCs located throughout Oregon as of August, 2022.

Senate Bill 549 establishes a minimum amount for grants to SBHCs and requires that amount to be adjusted annually for inflation. The bill also establishes grants for planning, improving school-based mental health services, trauma-informed approaches, and developing wraparound service delivery hubs in schools.
