BACKGROUND:

The State Board of Architect Examiners (Board) was established in 1919 and oversees the registration and regulation of the practice of architecture in Oregon. The Board operates as a semi-independent state agency. Oregon law governs the registration and practice of architects within Oregon and "foreign architects" seeking to practice in Oregon. It also provides a disciplinary process for persons in violation of regulations governing the practice of architecture. The Board establishes by rule education, experience, and examination requirements for persons seeking to practice architecture in Oregon.

Senate Bill 224 A modifies and updates statutes regulating the practice of architecture in Oregon. The measure updates terminology and concept descriptions related to architectural practice to be more consistent with architectural practice across the country. In addition, SB 224 A removes some barriers to registration for firms providing architectural services in Oregon.
