BACKGROUND:

The stated mission of Oregon Housing and Community Services (OHCS) is to “provide leadership in, and review and set policy for, the development and financing of affordable housing in the state of Oregon.” As the number of people experiencing or at risk of homelessness increases, demand for OHCS services also increases, though the agency’s statutory authority has not always kept pace with legislative directives. Disparities exist among the homeless population in Oregon: the Native population share of homeless counts in 2020 was four times higher than their share of the general population, while Black Oregonians made up three times as much of the homeless population as their share of the population at-large. House Bill 2100, enacted in 2021, directed OHCS to establish the Task Force on Homelessness and Racial Disparities to address the state’s provision of and access to culturally responsive homeless services. The Task Force released its report in January 2022 with recommendations on ways to address racial disparities in the homeless population, including: identifying needs of housing-insecure individuals, understanding agency capacity issues, adjusting funding structures, and modifying contracting processes.

Senate Bill 893 A directs OHCS to modify its funding structure based on recommendations from the Task Force on Homelessness and Racial Disparities. It directs OHCS to provide a report to a housing-related committee of the Legislative Assembly about the changes and recommended homeless program adjustments by March 15, 2024. The measure allows OHCS to design policy directed toward tribes, community action agencies, continuums of care, and culturally specific organizations, and it gives OHCS the authority to support or develop homelessness-specific programs and systems.
