No amendment.

BACKGROUND:

In 1975, the Legislative Assembly established the Legislative Commission on Indian Services (section 2, chapter 688, Oregon Laws 1975). The commission was created to improve services to Indians in Oregon by compiling information about services available to Indians; developing and sponsoring programs to inform Indians of services available to them; developing and sponsoring programs to make Indian wants and needs known to the public and private agencies, the activities of which affect Indians; assessing and recommending improvements of state agency programs operating for the benefit of Indians; and reporting biennially to the Governor and the Legislative Assembly on all matters of concern to Indians of this state.

There are nine federally recognized Indian Tribes in Oregon: The Burns Paiute Tribe; the Confederated Tribes of Coos, Lower Umpqua and Siuslaw; the Confederated Tribes of the Warm Springs Reservation; the Coquille Indian Tribe; the Klamath Tribes; the Cow Creek Band of the Umpqua Tribe of Indians; the Confederated Tribes of the Umatilla Indian Reservation; the Confederated Tribes of Grande Ronde; and the Confederated Tribes of Siletz.

House Bill 3173 continues the stated policy of the Legislative Assembly to continually improve services to American Indians in this state and promote communication between the state and the nine federally recognized
