WHAT THE MEASURE DOES:

Increases the statute of limitations from 12 years to 20 years for: Rape in the First Degree, Sodomy in the First Degree, Unlawful Sexual Penetration in the First Degree, and Sexual Abuse in the First Degree. Applies to offenses committed before, on or after the effective date of the Act, but does not operate to revive a prosecution barred by the statute of limitations before the effective date of the Act.

ISSUES DISCUSSED:

- Applies to most serious sex offenses

EFFECT OF AMENDMENT:

No amendment.

BACKGROUND:

The current statute of limitations for sex abuse offenses in the first degree is 12 years after the commission of the crime or if the victim of the crime was under 18 years of age, then any time before the victim turns 30. The statute of limitations operates as the time period someone can be charged with a crime. In 2019, New York increased the statute of limitations for certain sex offenses to 20 years. Washington's statute of limitations for certain sex offenses is also 20 years and California removed its statute of limitations for serious sex offenses in 2016.

House Bill 3632 increases the statute of limitations from 12 years to 20 years for sex abuse offenses in the first degree and it applies to offenses committed before, on or after the effective date of the Act, but does not apply to those offenses if the statute of limitations expired before the effective date of the Act.
