Submitter: Gary Buchholz

On Behalf Of:

Committee: Senate Committee On Rules

Measure: HB2004

My concern with RCV is two fold:

1) While it might seem straightforward, it's a complicated platform that voters won't understand
2) The process delays the results

With today's political climate and the public's lack of faith in our elections (founded or not); if we're to add delayed results and complicated algorithms with a change to RCV, we will potentially just drive further division as voters won't trust the results.