As someone who intentionally did not own a car from February 2018 (when my car was totaled) to last month, a near total of 5 yrs without a car, I fully support this bill. And in the event that I can buy an electric bike, I will be able to reduce my future car use significantly. I need a car for some long distance trips, but an electric bike would provide me another transportation option, especially for those trips too annoying/long/wet that I don't want to ride my manual bicycle but are too short/congested/ or have ridiculous parking that I don't want to drive. Thank you.
