Response to: House Committee on Education

I don't believe this kind of survey is needed as trans is a separate entity from the LBG community. Trans isn't a sexual orientation; it's people uncomfortable with their bodies, not their sexuality. Conflating the two creates confusion in young people who are trying to figure out who they are, a normal part of puberty. Regular sex education, when well done, should be enough to create the kind of harmony this bill proposes.
