

Submitter: Chris Schuster

On Behalf Of:

Committee: House Committee On Judiciary

Measure: HB2572

The fact is that the ability to defend an attack is instinctual in humanity. If you look at our anatomy. You will see our mental abilities to create tools. Weapons are tools from our own minds and hands are no different than the animal kingdom having the instinct to use the very tools implemented in their anatomy to defend themselves. The concept of self defense is in our design. The threat of harm cannot be legislated from existence. Kane killed Able, not the rock.