Measure: SB548

These children in foster care already started life with a bad start, with parents who they were ripped away from and sometimes being bounced back and forth between homes, of all kinds of conditions, constantly. These children deserve to feel like they matter (especially AT LEAST by the system and people who are helping them find their, hopefully, forever family)!!!! I support this bill so each child can have a sturdy container to carry their personal belongings in, in the event that a move is required, as opposed to a trash bag that can break and potentially ruin the confidence of a child who deserves more than life gave them. Happy children make happy futures.
