

Submitter: chris beaulieu

On Behalf Of:

Committee: House Committee On Early Childhood and Human Services

Measure: HB2457

The healthcare industry is woefully under-staffed, which is leading to a crisis of care, specifically for mental health. This resolution creates a path toward a better compensated model that could potentially lead to better resources for the mentally/developmentally challenged. It also potentially allows for differentiation between healthcare workers and other less skilled workers, such that the healthcare industry might attract a better quality of worker capable of providing a higher level of service.