

Submitter: Brianne Wicker

On Behalf Of:

Committee: House Committee On Behavioral Health and Health Care

Measure: HB2458

Therapy has played a crucial role with my own self-acceptance. I realized that just because I look and act a certain way, doesn't mean I'm less of a woman. Without therapy I might've taken hormones and gotten a mastectomy. This huge mistake would've led me to a dark place and I'm so relieved my therapist gave me the tools needed to understand myself. I love being a butch lesbian now, even if society doesn't appreciate women like me.