I am so grateful that my daughter is able to attend an outdoor preschool as her introduction to social learning. She is thriving in her school as she befriends Nature and humans alike. I feel that the outdoors is the ideal venue for children to learn and grow as their expansive energy is held beautifully by Mother Nature (as well as the amazing teachers who understand and value this education). I wholeheartedly support making outdoor preschool programs more available to more people - it will only bring benefit and beauty to the community.
