

Submitter: Ella Van Wyk
On Behalf Of:
Committee: Senate Committee On Education
Measure: SB854

Growing up, I only ever learned about climate change in science class, and that in itself was very limited. The issue is that climate change impacts so much more, such as communities and the history of our cities. In order to combat climate change and limit the spread of misinformation around it, we have to start with education. Isn't school all about learning about how the world works? Climate change impacts our world in such a way that we absolutely can not ignore it anymore. As a student, I support this bill because I have hope for the future generations and their ability to learn without being denied access to important topics. Thank you.