

It is unconscionable that humans still believe it is ok to take wild animals out of their habitats and use them for entertainment. It has been shown repeatedly that they are happiest in the wild. How many have to live a tortured life (any life other than that they were meant to live) before we afford them the same respect all living beings should have.