

Submitter: Anthony Albert

On Behalf Of:

Committee: Senate Committee On Labor and Business

Measure: SB907

Workers deserve to be safe on the job. Yet in Oregon, there are too many preventable workplace injuries and deaths. If a worker reasonably believes a job assignment can seriously injure or kill them (such as harvesting crops in an active wildfire evacuation zone), they should be able to say no. No one should have to choose between being safe and keeping their livelihood.