Hello House Rules.

I am 100% opposed to changing how we rig election process.

I mean today we take near 40 days to do what Florida does in 1 day with 2/3rds less people in Oregon ?

Clackamas co has now suffered 2 majorly flawed elections, 1 where they hand wrote ballots for the voters who had blurred ballots , (what is that ?).

Sec of State and AG both say our system is ripe for fraud... many counties now have lawsuits in them because of "anomalies" :(

RANK CHOICE VOTE means nothing if machines are no better calibrated than they appear to be now. Who Knows, because powers that be do not want a forensic audit of the machines.

Factor that all out and what we seen in the Last Gov. election... Kotek got 250,000.

Reid got 150,000 and Drazan got just under 90,000, in the primary.

That would have resulted in a run off in it's self as no body would have gotten over 50% (at that point what difference does it make ?)

considering 40 candidates ran it could have taken a year to tally the votes if it takes 40 to tally for 2 candidates in the general.

Then in the General election one would have voted for 1 of 3 ? or would Betsy have even been in the fray ?

As is no one trusts the system now... why piss them off with some new system that has to be tallied 3 times to factor the 2 run off candidates ? (if one has 3 votes for each seat).
