

Submitter: John Paul

On Behalf Of:

Committee: House Committee On Rules

Measure: HB2004

Ranked choice has been tried in a number of places and tends to skew the results toward the center of the political spectrum. As a result you get representatives who are not on the fringe and therefore represent a broader slice of the body politic. In this era of political polarization I think that ranked choice moves more toward a consensus based system.

John Paul

Cameron Winery Dundee Oregon