Dear Committee considering House Bill 2024,

Ranked choice voting have PROVEN to:

- Decrease voter participation as it creates confusion with people. That alone should be a huge red flag.
- In a time where voter confidence in true results are at an all-time low, Ranked Choice Voting takes weeks and adds cost and complication to the process. The more complication, the more it invites potential for errors and introduce fraud.
- It dilutes my vote.
- Lastly, it's totally unconstitutional at a State and Federal level and should go to court before it even starts (if that's possible).

This is a horrible idea. Let other states like Alaska figure this out the hard way, which they just did. Costly. Confusing. Slow. And why is this a good thing over a more direct Democracy?... It isn't.

Thank you.

Peter
