Measure: HB2007

A legal right to carry a firearm for defense of self has been determined to be Constitutionally guaranteed and immune to any legislative consideration per that Constitution. This is just a back door attempt to deny that right in extremis by causing the practice of that right to be legislated as criminal.

Again, the bill is a blatant overreach of legislative powers granted to government in representation of its constituents, and is both nefariously duplicitous and serves only to endanger those constituents.
