Committee: House Committee On Behavioral Health and Health Care

Measure: HB2002

This bill violates parental rights. Parents cannot care for their children adequately without knowledge of what they are going through. If this bill passes, life altering decisions can be made by children who do not have the fullness of brain maturity or life experience on which to rely. Support families, support parents. Trust that most parents do have their children's best interests in mind and have the capacity and care to help their children through hard decisions such as sexual health care and abortions.
