Measure: HB2007

HB2007 is unconstitutional. It offends the rights given to the American citizens by the 2nd amendment of the constitution. The constitution states those rights shall not be infringed upon. Those rights do not stop at a building, property line or any other arbitrary. The right to bear arms is given to the individual. That is a person not a place. The individual has the right to possess the arm on their person at any place, anywhere and at any time in America as stated in the 2nd amendment of the Constitution.
