Measure: HB3090

To whom it may concern,

I am writing to express my strong opposition to House Bill 3090 in Oregon. As a concerned citizen, I believe that this bill is misguided and could have harmful unintended consequences.

First and foremost, I believe that this bill infringes on the rights of adult consumers who choose to use vaping products as a harm reduction tool. While I understand the need to protect minors from the dangers of nicotine addiction, I believe that this bill goes too far in restricting the choices of responsible adults.

Furthermore, I am concerned about the potential economic impact of this bill. The vaping industry is a growing and innovative sector of the economy, and the restrictions proposed in this bill could stifle its growth and cost jobs in the state.

Finally, I believe that this bill sends the wrong message to young people about personal responsibility and freedom of choice. By imposing overly restrictive regulations on adult consumers, we risk sending a message that government knows best and that individuals are not capable of making informed decisions about their own health.

In conclusion, I urge you to reconsider your support for House Bill 3090. Instead, we should focus on education and outreach programs to inform young people about the dangers of nicotine addiction and provide them with the tools they need to make responsible choices. Thank you for your consideration.

Sincerely,

Justin Ellis
