

My name is Marie Chinn. I'm 74 yrs. old. I'm one of the people who stand on the sidewalk outside Planned Parenthood in the cold and the rain to offer life affirming choices to people experiencing unplanned pregnancies.

I have seen what a abortion can do to a young person. They can develop PTSD, get into drugs & alcohol to numb the pain, have difficulty bonding with their first born child, and may have difficulty with relationships whenever someone gets emotionally close to them.

I offer life affirming choices on the sidewalk. I steer them to pregnancy resource centers that can help them decide what is the best choice for themselves and their baby.

If they need help financially or to finish their education, or a safe place to live, people like the Hope Pregnancy Clinic can direct them to further resources depending on their needs.
