Measure: SB611

My rent has risen by the full allowable amount for each of the last 10 years. This year I told the owner I will try to find a roommate, but if I can't I will have to move out in May. It's too bad landlords have been allowed to push rents so high. This bill won't help those of us who've been renting--because it doesn't roll back previous rent increases or in any other way address your past generosity to landlords--but it should, eventually, help new tenants.
