Committee: Senate Committee On Judiciary
Measure: SB348

First of all, This is completely unconstitutional.

Second, I fail to see how this will reduce gun violence. If a criminal wants to obtain a weapon, they will find a way to obtain a weapon. These people are obviously not afraid of breaking any laws, so why do we think (ridiculous) laws or measures will stop them?

This simply makes it more difficult to be a law abiding citizen, while still reserving our right to bear arms and protect ourselves. This makes it much more difficult for women, and mothers, like myself, to protect ourselves and our families. If a woman (or anyone) feels unsafe, they dont always have the time to go through all of these obstacles in order to purchase protection. There have been many instances proving that police are not always able to arrive in time to protect us. Nor do they always have the bandwidth. We have a right to feel safe and have protection without all of these obstacles.

Currently, there doesn't even seem to be adequate plans in motion for this. Where are the funds coming from? Do we have enough certified individuals to teach the classes required?

They say the point of this is to stop gun violence. But that will never happen. Gun violence is the result of evil, and evil will always remain. What we need is God and parents who are present for their children and aware of their mental and emotional well being. The problem is not guns, and is not the law abiding citizens who legally purchase guns and exercise their 2nd ammendment right. Yet that is who this is targeting.
