

Submitter: Ryan Jack

On Behalf Of:

Committee: House Committee On Judiciary

Measure: HB3390

The fur industry has been around longer than the country of the United States. The fur trading industry is a key player in so many forms of life and culture. The animals that are being harvested for their fur are also being used for other sellable and marketable good as well as their fur it doesn't make sense to waste a resource that is renewable and sustainable while also undoing the good that comes out of the death of these animals in the first place. Fur is essential to many industries including fly fishing and guiding. There is plenty of renewable resources in Oregon that are going to be used and benefited by the trade!