I am the cofounder of Reading Results, and have years of experience working with children, who are struggling to learn to read. In all my years working with students, I never met a child who didn't want to learn to read. But so many struggle. We know that if children are not reading at grade level by third grade, they are not likely to catch up with their peers. Our state is failing these struggling readers by not providing science based reading instruction and intervention programs that can get students on the path to success.
