I thought we already had one of the most liberal assisted suicide laws in the country. Why do we feel it necessary to open this up to everyone in the country and why is this "an emergency"? I strongly oppose this bill because of it's open-endedness and the potential cost of being flooded with non-Oregonians to further tax our over-taxed medical system in the state. We're concerned about the rate of suicide in the state and now we're opening it up even further? What type of message does that send to those who are already fragile?
