Measure: SB1583

I am writing in support of SB1583 because it is vital to make a complete survey of history and society available in the educational process. It does terrible harm to a society to prevent accurate documentation of the world being available to its population, especially during the time their primary activity is learning about the world around them. The exclusion of the history and contributions of segments of the population paints an inaccurate picture of the world and prevents students from growing into fully informed members of society, and places them in the position of making future decisions from incomplete or inaccurate knowledge. This harms everyone; the students themselves, their cohort, their successors, and all those living beside them.
