

The McMinnville Community Low-Barrier Shelter (MCLBS) calls on the Legislature to make significant investments in housing and homelessness prevention through SB 1530.

MCLBS provides the largest low-barrier overnight shelter in Yamhill County, and thereby the northern Willamette Valley. We open every Friday night and in hazardous weather conditions. We serve principally the chronically homeless of the area, the systematically disadvantaged with frequent co-occurring mental health and addiction issues. MCLBS provides refuge, resources, and an environment of community for guests who might otherwise have none of those things.

Housing Oregon, Governor Kotek and the Oregon Housing and Community Services (OHCS) are advocating for a vital investment of $65 million in Oregon's homeless shelters and transitional housing system. This funding is essential to stabilize our existing shelter capacity and enhance the outcomes of our shelter system. It includes crucial support for services like housing navigation and assistance with obtaining identification, which are key steps in transitioning individuals from shelters to permanent housing.

With only one year-round emergency shelter bed for every three individuals experiencing homelessness in Oregon, the need for stable, ongoing funding cannot be overstated. Such funding would allow providers to concentrate more on delivering crucial services and less on financial survival.

Furthermore, ensuring that shelters remain open and operational is not just a matter of addressing homelessness; it is also an issue of racial and geographic equity. Disproportionate rates of homelessness among Black, Native Hawaiian or Pacific Islander, and American Indian or Alaskan Native Oregonians highlight the racial disparities that need to be addressed. Moreover, nearly 40% of shelters at risk of closure are located in the Balance of State CoC, underscoring the statewide impact of this issue.

The request for $65 million is a necessary step towards a more equitable and just Oregon. It is an investment in the basic human dignity of providing shelter to those in need. I urge you to consider this request with the seriousness and urgency it deserves, recognizing that it is not just a financial decision but a moral imperative.

Thank you for your dedication to serving the people of Oregon.
