Measure: SB1583

Oregon has a population with diverse perspectives and backgrounds, and public school students deserve to access materials that not only reflect their own circumstances, but those of others in their communities. This legislation provides clarification to the anti-discrimination law and encourages schools to use materials that do not ignore the place of under-represented peoples in American history. It is not indoctrination to note that people exist and have made historic contributions to the progress we have made as a society.
