Let me get this straight, Kim Thatcher wanted to switch us to permanent daylight savings time and failed in part because California didn't pass it's daylight savings bill and now you are arguing for the exact opposite of what you previously advocated for? Is this just Kim Thatcher trying to get more legislation under her belt to tout her "successes" for another run for governor in the future?

I do not support this legislation. I think the current system should stay in place. If I were pressed to choose between standard time and daylight savings time year round I would prefer daylight savings time. Oregon is a northern latitude state and the late evening sun in the summer is quite pleasant and that's in part why the initial permanent daylight savings bill was attempted. Now you have abandoned that idea and flip-flopped just to be able to say you accomplished something. Its not about passing any legislation, it's about passing the right legislation.
