I get dozens of emails each week asking for money for candidates and for legislative issues. Every conversation has to start with money. I grew up with the Fairness Doctrine, an era when money did not have such a life-grip on our political process and the people's voices made our Democracy run. If Democracy is to survive, and we are most definitely on the teetering edge, it must focus on preventing money from flowing to the pockets of our decision makers. It is common sense. I implore you to do whatever you can to STOP the campaign money stronghold.
