Our country says it believes in freedom .. and that certainly pertains to written information of all kinds. Education .. from many sources and experiences and backgrounds is crucial to broadening and bettering our world and learning how we can live together, in a more accepting and compassionate way. And freedom to share thoughts, of which books are a primary source, is crucial. This information/opinions should be as varied as possible. Each individual can then choose their own path. This has been true from the first invention of writing through today. To ban ANY books is a stand AGAINST freedom!
